

ARCHBISHOP MAY SERVICE AWARD WINNERS – Where Are They Now?

NATHAN LOGAN – 2017 awardee

1. Was there a key influence at Duchesne that prompted you to be so interested and involved in service? Please give specifics if possible.

Most of service involvement in high school was through the Duchesne Key Club. I think being a part of a group of my peers that shared my dedication to serving my school and community is the reason that I developed such a passion for service.

2. Have you continued to be involved in service in your life after Duchesne? Please give a few examples, if possible.

As a freshman at Saint Louis University, I have become involved in a few different service organization and I am always looking for new ways to serve the community. Most recently, some fellow SLU students and I showed high school aged participants of the Big Brothers Big Sisters program around SLU's campus in order to give them a better idea of what college life is like.

3. We know you've done a lot for others; what do you feel you've gained in the time you've spent in the service of others? What have you taken away from the experience (s)?

I feel like I've really developed a strong sense of community with those that I've served and those that I've served with. Some of my closest friends from Duchesne, and many of the friends I've made at SLU, have been service-oriented people. A passion for service has also lead me to my college major, public health, and sparked my desire to enter medical school upon graduation.
